MAGAZINE FEATURES

THE NEWS SCIMITAR DAILY COMIC PAGE

DOROTHY DIX'S TALK

BY DOROTHY DIX, The World's Highest Paid Woman Writer. THE STATUS OF QUO ANTE.

the status que ante just now. The probiem of the whole world is how to get things back to where they were before lem of the whole world is how to get things back to where they were before the war.

Germany is demanding to be received back into the sisterhood of nations in the position she occupied before she ruthlessly frenched the earth in blood and tearn France is trying to rehabilitate her devastated frield and the devastated field and the feed question, trying to bring about a return of the days when pork once and the feed question, trying to bring about a return of the days when pork once and usury of the rich and it is a seen and there is no returning to the status question and the seen of the days when pork once and usury of the rich and it is a seen and the feed question, trying to bring about a return of the days when pork once and usury of the rich and it is a seen as a seen as a few and there is no returning to the status question. The control of the days when pork once and there is no returning to the status question and the possible of the seen buy to the seen of the passants of the wreeked homes of the passants of Flanders will never rise again in the same pictures will never rise again in the ward of the passants of the ward their all ever sing with joy again. In no particular will the world go back it what it was before the war. There is not a solder who wont through the discipline of army training, who were the same and that he was when he went who wont through the discipline of army training, who were the same between them. They can never go back to the status question of the passants of the first of the great world in which each of us lives and has our being. When this store, and what is true of the great world in which each of us lives and has our being. When this each of the passants are the proposition of a passant proposition of fectly happy together."

"But I couldn't go back," said the wife. "I could never look at him clothed in his right mind without seeing him filthy, maudin, sodden with ilquor. When he tried to careas me I shrank from the hand that had struck me. When he talked of love it raised no answering response in my heart, for he had killed my love and respect so

Y'SAY YOU'RE

NIGHT WATCHIN'

ALONE - WHERE'S HICKEY - Y'HELPER ?

DAWGONNIT! I'D LIKE TO

LOAF AROUND A FEW DAYS

BEFORE WE START HOME

LITTLE MARY MIXUP—Bobbie Is Wasting Both His Time and His Talent!

HE GOT

TH' AIR!

Silent Partner"!

VNCLE WIGGILY

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE ROLLING HOOP.

copyright, 1919, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

BY HOWARD R. GARIS.

Uncle Wiggly Longears, the bunny abbit gentleman, was sitting on the proper of his hollow stump bungalow me morning after breakfast, wenderig where he might go to have an adequate where he might go to have an adequate, when, all of a sudden, he heard meone ask him:

"Have you an old barrel you don't in the samming Little tall, the rabbit boy, and his sister Susie, with Jackie and Feetle Bow Wow and other animal boys and girls were having a good time rolling their hoops.

"This is real jolly!" said Circle Wigging as a seat down on a flat stump to watch the fun. "I wish I were young content to roll a heep myself."

"Why, you are," said Johnnie "Here, take the hoop you gave me and roll it a bit."

"Maxe you an old barrel you don't will be a survived by the wingsily, in survive as a ke winkied he wingsily, in survive as a trick on the part of the Pipsisewah wasn't there, and the only animal Uncle Wiggily saw was Johnnie Bushytail, the squirrel boy, "Did you ask me for a barrel," and the read of the Pipsisewah wasn't there, and the only animal Uncle Wiggily saw was Johnnie Bushytail, the squirrel boy, "Did you ask me for a barrel, Johnnie Pushytail, the squirrel boy, "Id. But I don't exactly want a barrel," "What for?" asked Mr. Longears.

"What for?" asked Mr. Longears.
"What for?" asked Mr. Longears.
"What for?" asked Mr. Longears.
"What for?" asked Mr. Longears.
"What for?" asked Mr. Longears.
"What for?" asked Mr. Longears.
"What for?" asked Mr. Longears.
"What for?" asked Mr. Longears.
"What for?" asked Mr. Longears.
"What for?" asked Mr. Longears.
"What for?" asked Mr. Longears.
"What for?" asked Mr. Longears.
"What for?" asked Mr. Longears.
"What for?" asked Mr. Longears.
"What for?" asked Mr. Longears.
"What for?" asked Mr. Longears.
"What for?" asked Mr. Longears.
"What for?" asked Mr. Longears.
"What for?" asked Mr. Longears.
"What for?" asked Mr. Longears.
"What for?" asked Mr. Longears.
"What for?" asked Mr. Longears.
"What for?" asked Mr. Longears.
"What for?" asked Mr. Longears.
"What for?" asked Mr. Longears.
"They have barrel hoops, and the paths in the woods like Samin' population of Uncle Wiggily and John-lee "It was a was a trick, and it rolled right over in front of Uncle Wiggily, so the said Uncle Wiggily. So the looked lown in the cellar of his hollow stump nangalow, and he found a barrel that ad once had yellow carrotts in. Nimplant of the will be ust fibe." challed the property of the will be ust fibe." challed the will be ust fibe." chall

JOE'S CAR-S'no Use,-You've Got

NOTHING DOING! WE

START FOR HOME

TOMORROW!

YEAH

AN' HICKEY'

GO TO SLEE! NIGH

NICE CORNE

WOT! YOU REPORTED

SLEEPIN' ON DUTY ?

The Style Shop

A very modest price kwick must depart libraries, correct designing, pure wm Weller, ship and all else that cound. Tony Weller; even ready-made garmen, ercy Tupman Don't delay—the time to thousand other

rs, because

"Samuels" HA perance woman Again we nable characters

$3.50 this season, ut. elsewhere is rumhound left. $10, and even he has been dead f years, is held ndist for liquor. n, we must lose

MAIN Samue ture d Bobble Burns, MEMPHIS

popping up e joy out of life. Due to the approachs long, they probably get two morning

Goldsmith. as, Balzac, Poe.

vritten about

about the Bible.

who touched liquor.

ays annoying questions

changed for the Sut has sent in the following advertisement

THE CARRIAGE WAITS, M'LORD.

Joe Caruthers, a prominent young man from Newbern, who enlisted in the United States navy over a year ago, has returned here after reports were circulated last fall that he had been killed. Young Caruthers has been discharged from the service of the government.

Walter Rock delivered an auto hearse here, Sunday, to his father, W. M. Rock, our local undertaker. With this up-to-date addition to Mr. Rock's undertaking equipment, the people to be deceased hereabouts may have all the style obtainable in a first-class city, on their concluding ride to their last earthly resting place.—Lyndon (Kan.) Herald.

WHICH?

And asked, "Is this mommer or popper?" --Walter Pulitzer.

HOROSCOPE

Pr THURSDAY, APRIL 17, 1919. Copyright, 1919, by the McClure News paper Syndicate.) Fair lack does not attend this day, coording to astrology. Saturn and repiter are both in cell place. It is not a favorable sway under thich to undertake any sort of initiaand There is a sinister sign for those and There is a sinister sign for those men are interested in metals, especially men and steel. This rule is supposed a affect machinists and engineers, who Otili later enjoy extraordinary prosperseady armers should be careful, for there teres a threatening aspect for crops. Unus quorable conditions may cause loss. A $10 dague of insects has been long fore-us dvorable conditions may cause loss. A $10 taxue of insects has been long fore-dated the stars are not friendly to bankers state merchants while this configuration. All revails.

Business is subject to conditions that loud produce a period of great prospective in the future. Forebodings and sea that will be fomented by enemy fluence should not be harbored, for sere are extraordinary opportunities hand.

Jupiter is in a place denoting rems in high places and retrenchment government expenditures.

What is the dregs of thought and across will come to the surface before wait final settlement that follows the saty of peace. This means that many sounds will be aired.

The Eastern states should especially feguard the public health during the sping summer and children should be atched with great care, for much illegiated with great care for much illegiated with great care, for much illegiated with great care for much illegiated with great care.

Tranus is in a place that is supposed foreast scrious earthquikes before insummer. Violent storms are indicated for the grant storms.

inclined toward extravagance. These subjects of Aries are on the cusp, and, as they may partake of Taurus characteristics, they are likely to be erratic

SMALLPOX IN DYER.

NEWBERN, Tenn., April 16. (Spl.)—
An epidemic of smallpex is raging in the Laplats section, a few miles east of Newbern, according to the statement of the attending physician of Newbern. Scott Williams, an aged resident of that section, has been stricken with the malady. The county physician from Dyersburg was notified, who pronounced the disease smallpex, and vaccinated a number of people in that vicinity.

NEW PAPER IS OUT.

NEW BERN. Tenn. April 16. (Spl.)—
The first edition of Norvell News, a monthly four-page paper, which is published here by Lcuis G. Norvell, has been sent throughout Dyer and adjoining counties. The new paper is an advertising medium in the Interest of the Norvell stores, and the readers in this section are delighted with Newbern's new enterprise.

TO DELIVER a trunk. AND BECAUSE we had two I GAVE him one forty. AND A little extra. TO BUY a cigar. AND IN the afternoon. THE TRANSFER truck came. WITH A couple of men. AND A lot of trunks. AND THEY put ours off. DOWN ON the stdewalk. IN FRONT of the building, AND RANG the bell. AND SAID they were there. AND I called down, TO BRING them upstairs, AND THEY said they couldn't. AND I asked them why. AND THEY said it was the union, AND ANYWAY.

THAT THEY couldn't help it

AND IT wasn't their busines.

THAT IT was seventy cents.

OR WHATEVER it was. ALL THEY could do. AND THEY both declared it. WELL HERE'S A. D. S. C. WAS TO leave them right there. ON THE edge of the sidewalk. AND I tried to tell them. THAT IN all my life. I'D NEVER carried a trunk. UP A flight of stairs. AND I couldn't do it. AND IT was raining. AND I hadn't any idea. WHERE I could go. TO HIRE a man. AND WHAT could I do? AND THEY both said.

TO TAKE trunks upstairs. AND I pleaded with them. AND SPOKE about money. AND WOULD it help? AND THEY held a meeting. DOWN IN the hallway. AND RESCINDED the rule. AND BROUGHT the trunks upstairs. AND I paid them both. AND THEY didn't thank me. AND WENT away. AND I asked a man. IF THICRE was such a rule. AND HE said there was. AND IT'S all right. AND I'M not a bit sore. EXCEPT I'M growing tired. OF All the rules. THAT EVERYBODY'S making, FOR THE fellow in between. IT'S GETTING WO. I'M AFRAID of janitors. AND STREET car conductors. AND USHIERS in the theaters. AND CLERKS in the banks. AND EVERYBODY. AND THE man who reads the ga AND COMES right in.

WHEN I open the door.

HE DOESN'T even say good morning.
OR IT'S a nice day.

OR ANYTHING.
I THANK you.

BUILDS GROCERY PLANT.

HELENA, Ark. April 16. (Spl.)—The Helena Wholesale Grocery company has purchased a site in Marianna, where the company will erect a modern warehouse and will conduct a branch at this point.

devoting her entire attention to herself.
And it took Estrelda the livelong day to dress for that first dinner of hers.
In the morning she arranged her whole tollette on the bed, stockings, gloves—the entire paraphernalia. After hinch she decided to try on everything. She tried things this way and that. Hy 3:30 she had decilared herself so tired by these efforts that everything had to be cleared from the bed so that she might rest. At 4:30 she arose and began to dress.

She had bought for the occasion a vivid pink evening gown. It was the shade which at the time was being described in fashion magazines and by saleswomen as—"new." Estrelda an ever distribution to herself.

In the morning she arranged her whole tollete on the bed, stockings, gloves—the entire paraphernalia. After hinch she decided to try on everything had to be cleared from the bed so that she might rest. At 4:30 she arose and began to dress.

She had bought for the occasion a vivid pink evening gown. It was the shade which at the time was being described in fashion magazines and by saleswomen as—"new." Estrelda never a with the proposed to array herself.

Now "the color of the color of the self."

Now "the color of the occasion a vivid pink evening sown. It was the shade which at the time was being the self.

Now "the color of the self."

Now "the color of the self."

Now "the color of the self."

Now "the color of the self." SHOVES ME aside.

WHO'S T ETHEL LLOYD

CHAPTER NO. 80. The Costume. (Copyright, 1919, by the McClure News-paper Symdicate.)

Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Freddie really knew too little of the proper dress for girls to be able to advise his wife in this emergency. Like most young men—or even older men—he knew when a girl or woman was correctly gowned, and when there was something wrong about her costume. But it was difficult for him to put his impression into words. It might not be possible even for him to point out the flaw if there were one. He merely would know it was there. Certainly Freddie was incapable of making suggestions if he had not seen the tollette in which his bride proposed to burst upon an astonished world, though phrases and words of hers filled him with foreboding. She had said something of "long gloves" and a "feather fan." Freddie had an uneasy suspicion that these were not accessories of the proper costume for an informal dinner with his parents. However, Estreida looked so wise and so steadfastly refused detailed information of her intentions that Freddie had to be content with hints to her that he only could hope were tactful.

"I'll try to get uptown sarly," he said on the morning of the Saturday which was to see the much-discussed dinner, "but we're awfully busy now. If I'm late it would help a lot if you'd have Sarah put the studs and cuff links into one of my soft plaited shirts and—"Soft shirt!" Interrupted Estreida.

"Soft shirt!" Interrupted Estreida, links into one of my soft plaited shirts and—"

"Soft shirt!" interrupted Estrelda, "whatever are you going to—"I'm going to wear my dinner coat," Freedie told her, and then, before she could make further comment: "Say, Sweetie, I may not know much about your clothes, but you really needn't worry about mine. I'il be sil right." Estrelda said no more, though she had misgivings. It was hard for her to believe that any man ought to attend any real festivity unless he was dressed in a shirt that was stiff as a board. But on the other hand, she was not utterly lacking in discernment. Instinct told her that her husband always was properly dressed; nay, more—that there was about him even some quality that seemed to command respect. She never doubted that this quality had something to do with his clothes. Perhaps she was not altogether wrong. So now she relinquished any argument with him in favor of devoting her entire attention to herself.

And it took Estrelda the livelong mally a peasant was allowed to Bolsheviki attitude toward the Bolsheviki attitude toward the was uncompromising. Priests hunted unmercifully. The evision of the priest showed that men wore slain only offense was that they as saxions or caretakers of the At Osa a priest was spared pleading of the peasants, but arch was looted. At one piece y of five priests escaped by hideron words.

y of five priests escaped of foe woods.

If year district everything of He olen from the churches, the looted and several effect in some places.

REPORTED but religious of study. NEWBERN, Tenn., April 16. (Spl.)

INSTALL PIPE ORGAN.

UNION CITY, Tenn., April 16. (Spl.)—A new pipe organ is being installed in First Methodist church at this place. This is the largest and by far the best church organ in the county. Some two years ago the Methodists built a new church, modern in every respect, which is the largest church organization in the county, numbering about 700 members.

Beginning Famerican & English for Saleable articles in France. all mill - 3 Rue de Trevise, Paris.

A suffragette lady named Hopper Donned clothes of a fashion so proper That her infant son, Brooks, Looked up from his books

Anyhow, those one-dollar highballs are helping make it easy for some folks to taper off,